INVESTMENT HIGHLIGHTS

Conclusion: All arrows appear to be pointing up for AXXA. This undervalued stock is generating enviable financial results while positioning itself as an emerging leader in some of the fastest growing industries. With a series of game-changing events around the corner, the gap between the current ridiculously low market cap and its impressive high book value will narrow. Plus, as deals close and are folded into Exxe, strong financial results are set to continue to occur, with higher stock prices to follow.

The Best of Both Worlds? By taking an innovative approach to asset growth and acquisition, AXXA offers reduced risk and high revenue growth as compared with typical high-growth loss-making companies.

AXXA Growth Rates Signify Higher Valuation. The September quarter numbers are just so impressive: Revenue jumped 484% to $2.6M while book value rose by 164% to $99.8M—a 20% increase from the June period. Operating loss was $261K but as the acquired business are further integrated and product/service synergy occurs, this loss will narrow and convert into profits.

Calm Before Major Activity and Share Jump. For AXXA, things have been quiet. Still, management has managed to execute innovative sustainable tech and agribusiness deals, reduce the share count by 8% and prepare for a Reg A+ offering---likely at a premium price due to closing its heavy, diverse, quality deal pipeline, narrowing of huge gap in book value to market cap ($99.8M to $7.1M), and achieving profit early next year. Thus, we reiterate our twelve-month $0.40 price target.
